Ramadan: A Special Month for Muslims Around the World

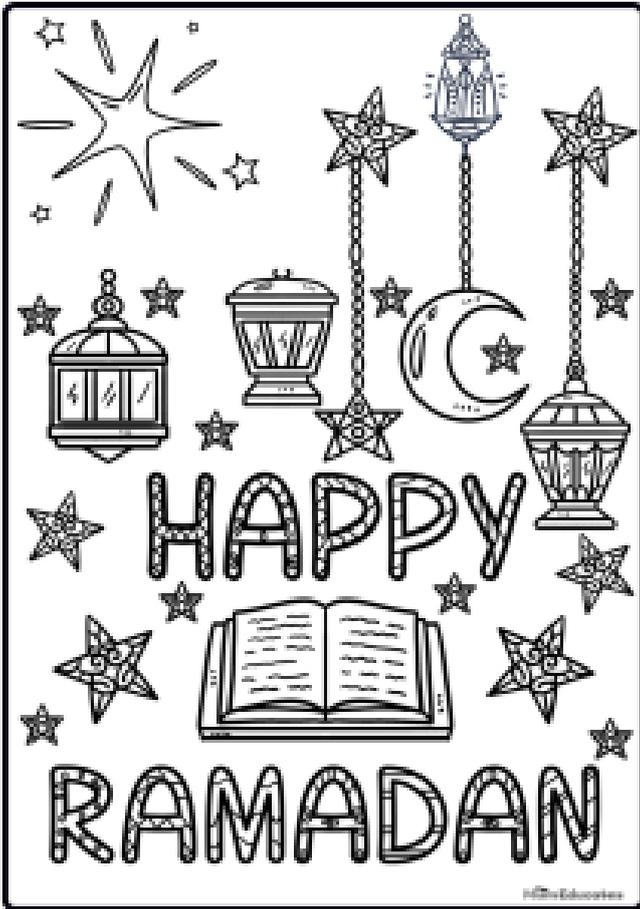

It is currently Ramadan, a very special and important month for Muslims around the world. Ramadan is the ninth month of the Islamic calendar, which follows the moon. Because it is based on the lunar cycle, the dates change every year and move earlier by about 10–11 days.

During Ramadan, Muslims fast every day from dawn until sunset. This means they do not eat or drink during daylight hours. Fasting helps people practise self-control, patience, and gratitude. It also encourages Muslims to think about those who are less fortunate and to give more to charity.

Ramadan is not only about fasting. It is also a time for prayer, reading the Qur'an, and spending time with family and friends. Muslims celebrate Ramadan because it is believed to be the month when the Qur'an was first revealed to the Prophet Muhammad. The month ends with a joyful celebration called Eid al-Fitr.
