Remembrance Day – Wednesday 11th November 2026

At the going down of the sun and in the morning, we will remember them.

Every year on 11th November, we mark Remembrance Day, also known as Armistice Day. This special day remembers all the brave soldiers and members of the Armed Forces who lost their lives during wars and conflicts, including the First and Second World Wars.

The 11th November was chosen because the fighting in the First World War ended at 11am on this day in 1918. To remember those who sacrificed their lives, people across the UK observe a two-minute silence at 11am.

There are lots of ways we can remember. We can wear a red poppy, take part in the two-minute silence, attend a remembrance service or simply take a moment to think about those who fought for our freedom and those who continue to serve in the Armed Forces today.

This Remembrance Day, let's take two minutes to pause, reflect and remember.
